

Cultural Awareness for Landcare Volunteers

This workshop will raise awareness of traditional cultural connections to the coastline and help Landcare volunteers and other community members working within the coastal zone identify cultural sites within their work areas.

The day will be delivered by the Jalumbo Research Centre and run in conjunction with Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare, North Coast Indigenous Services and the Northern Rivers Catchment Management Authority. The workshop will include visits to a range of local cultural sites, including: middens, stone artefact scatters, modified trees and stone fish traps, among others.

Participants will gain an understanding of:

- Traditional uses/connections to the coast
- The identification of cultural sites
- Protocols when cultural material/sites have been found

When: December 6th, 9am-3.30pm

Where: Yarrawarra Cultural Centre, 170 Red Rock Rd, CORINDI BEACH.

What to bring: A hat, appropriate footwear and a camping chair if you have one. Morning tea will be provided.

RSVP: Craig Stehn 6651 1308 by 29th November 2010
